

Dig it!

Protect the quality of your environment and other visitor's experiences by digging a cathole to dispose of your solid human waste. It's easy.

- A small garden trowel is the perfect tool for digging a cathole. A stick will work too.
- Walk into the woods at least 150' (about 70 adult steps) from water, camp and trails.
- Dig the hole 6-8 inches deep (about the length of the trowel blade) and 4-6 inches in diameter.
- Do your business. Bury or pack out toilet paper.
- When finished, the cathole should be filled with the original dirt and disguised with natural materials.

Dig a cathole.
It's the right thing to do.
